

W. H. VANDERBILT'S FUNERAL.

Services to Be Held at St. Bartholomew's Friday Morning.

A Delegation of Yale's Class of '93 to Attend the Obituaries.

All is gloom today in the Vanderbilt manor at Fifth avenue and Fifty-seventh street, where the body of young William H. Vanderbilt, who died last night at 10:15 o'clock of typhoid fever, now lies in an undertaker's ice-coffin.

WILLIAM H. VANDERBILT.
From a photograph taken when he was fifteen years old.

The family is grief-stricken. Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt denied themselves nothing to enable every one of their immediate relatives to pay their respects to the dead. Messenger boys carried many telegrams of condolence to the house, and the cards of hundreds of sympathizing friends were left at the door. Among them those of F. Astor, George H. Morgan, Courtland Field Bishop, William A. Bridges, President Law of Columbia College; William Jay, Seidenfaden, Philip J. Seward, A. Whitney, Samuel D. Bissell, Mrs. W. A. Astor, W. A. Kastell and David H. King, Jr.

The immediate relatives of the deceased have called early today to extend their sympathy to the bereaved parents.

He met the press yesterday at his home, but met the press again this morning, and said that all the arrangements for the funeral had not been completed, but that it had been decided to have services Friday in manœuvres to end at St. Bartholomew's church, Madison avenue and for a seventh street, the Rev. Dr. Green will officiate and the ceremony which will be very simple and of the usual form.

The question of the price of the funeral has not yet been settled, but it is said that Moses Taylor, a classmate of young Vanderbilt at Yale, his mother's man, will surely be among the mourners.

Mr. Astor, George H. Morgan, Courtland Field Bishop, William A. Bridges, President Law of Columbia College; William Jay, Seidenfaden, Philip J. Seward, A. Whitney, Samuel D. Bissell, Mrs. W. A. Astor, W. A. Kastell and David H. King, Jr.

ARE THE COUNTY BONDS VOID?

Trial of the Suit Against the East River Bank.

The Case Brought Up Before Supreme Court General Term.

Supreme Court Justices Barnard, Cullen and Dykman, sitting in General Term in Brooklyn, to-day heard argument in the suit of Henry H. Adams, Treasurer of Kings County, against the East River Savings Bank of New York.

The suit is called up to decide the validity of $2,000,000 worth of county bonds issued by the city in 1876. The bank bought $60,000 of armory bonds in April. There was a sale of securities amounting to $600,000. The East River bought $60,000 of armory bonds for $61,104. The bank sent a check for the amount, but afterwards refused to accept the bonds and stopped payment on the check, basing its refusal on the ground that the bonds were void, being in excess of the constitutional limitation of indebtedness.

Other purchasers then refused to accept the bonds and demanded that their checks be returned.

The question for the Court to decide is whether the limitation of 10 per cent applies to the county's legal power to become indebted, and the city's legal power to become indebted, severally or jointly. The decision will determine whether the county, under an act of the Legislature, can issue bonds equal to 10 per cent of the assessed valuation of the county property, and the city, if when authorized by the Legislature, can issue bonds equal to 10 per cent of the assessed valuation of the city property, which might be 20 per cent in all.

Col. Harding Expresses an Opinion on Jackson-Slavin Fight.

Rarus, the "King of Trotters," Expires at a Good Old Age.

The Slavin-Jackson battle, to be fought before the National Club, London, on May 30, is engaging the interest of sporting men on three continents, and it will decide the long-disputed championship of Australia, Col. W. H. Harding, of the Times, writes, in giving his opinion of the fight, said: "Slavin ought to win, who has never been beaten, and has shown himself to be a great fighter, while Jackson has been defeated, and by a second rate man at that. The class of man that Slavin has defeated is better than those beaten by Jackson."
